.the matrix

.there can be multiple level of the matrix... or multiple matrices

.there could be places where you deal with real "persons"... where there are consequences in other entities' perceptions ("real" selves)

Mind Control: Hypnosis offers amnesia clues

Amy Maxmen

Hypnosis can make some people forget and, when given a special cue, quickly remember recently viewed scenes. A new study using the technique may shed light on the process of memory retrieval and the potential for one part of the brain to block it. Hypnosis-induced memory suppression may also expand understanding of amnesia.

TOTAL RECALL. Subjects were asked to remember these documentary scenes—after they had received a hypnotic command to forget.

The Dudai lab, Weizmann Institute

Whenever the mind retrieves information, any number of memories might be conjured up by association. Yadin Dudai of the Weizmann Institute of Science in Rehovot, Israel, wondered how the brain selects only one memory and excludes many others.

Memory suppression is usually a healthy mental process that allows people to operate without the burdensome recollections of irrelevant or traumatic events. The process goes wrong in those with psychogenic amnesia, in which a person temporarily cannot recall certain life events.

Because amnesiac victims are difficult to study, Avi Mendelson, a graduate student in Dudai's laboratory, used hypnosis to induce memory suppression. He showed participants in the study, including a control group who were not susceptible to hypnosis, a documentary film. Recalling the content of the documentary taxes the same type of memory that records autobiographical episodes. One week later, Mendelson attempted to hypnotize all the participants and gave them an instruction to forget the movie. Out of the hypnotic state, they answered yes-or-no questions about the movie while their brains were scanned. He then repeated the process, this time telling participants to remember the movie.

Clear differences turned up between the brain scans of participants susceptible to hypnosis and those who weren't, the researchers report this week in the Jan. 10 Neuron. In general, scans of nonsusceptible participants showed more activity in many brain regions during recall than scans of the susceptible group. But the brains of those under the hypnotic command did show more activity in a part of the prefrontal cortex.

"In normal memory retrieval there is a set of areas that are important," Dudai explains, "so we suggest that this area in the left rostrolateral prefrontal cortex is abating this process early on, halting activity that would occur downstream." In other words, the area denies access to memory-related regions until the hypnotic cue to remember flips its switch.

Some experts express skepticism for the poorly understood technique. Larry Squire, a neuroscientist at the University of California, San Diego, wonders about the supposedly suppressed memories of the hypnotized. "What if participants were told to try harder?" he says. "What if they were offered money to remember?"

ok than let me waste my time writing. while I write slower than could talk, you can read faster than listen. Keeping that in mind, I hope you don't mind too much. But you gave me an assignment yesterday. The answer to that assignment is: "What do you see as drawing you towards doing it." The second thing I'd like to add is, about that "what you said, helped me wake up". I already gave you one example, the second such thing I didn't have the time and inspiration. ok, so, you said that you realize that you're in trance again, when you feel unhappy. now, I think I translated that for my self as, there's an emotional signal to be triggering an alarm. Since that's the common ground in way of waking up and yours. I don't feel unhappy... but's close, but it's not sadness. Anyhow, I learned to keep on eye on something and I still do. On emotions, anyhow. Third important thing I wanted to say is.. that this time-efficient attitude of yours is contagious. I'm not ready to waste that much time anymore, and combining thing 2 and 3, I get... to have an alarm on whether I feel that I'm using my time well enough... which in term relates to that decisionology of mine. Which is not about how I make desicions but... what's going around in the field of action. why I do what I do, and what's in the background of it. Last thing, is a question. I need a better word for decision. While we make decisions, decisions are a product, "we make". I need a term that adreses the whole thing, the process it self, maybe something like, decidingology, but I bet you can do better. So, I repeat, I'm not ready to waste my time either.

the trouble with sapes
...is that they think they don't make a difference

...how boring...

.part of their "justification" for their lives is that they can't really do anything better than what they're doing now
.it's a waste of time to fight it
.better just look out for "myself"... as though they have a clue about their "self"... who/what looks thru their eyes

.people who appear to be thinking deeply are suspicious in america
.they're probably crazy

.the matrix is right here... now
.the problem is that you have been hypnotized into thinking that one rather primitive/primal aspect of reality is THE ONE REAL AND TRUE REALITY... end of discussion
.that position is "wrong"
self-fulfilling prophecies
.the matrix is as real as so-called "physical" reality is 1424

.marriage is not an issue
.contracts is the issue
.truly binding yourself to a contract should be taken very seriously... religiously

.sometimes (desperate times) putting someone out of their inevitable misery is a good "thing"
.in the physical domain... in war... a person might rightly ask you to end his suffering

?how does it work in the matrix

.the matrix is as real and any other reality
.each reality has it's own rules
.the rules of squish don't necessarily apply in the matrix
.i don't want to be protected from dangerous elements
.i'll take care of myself, thank you
.and don't expect me to be responsible for your experience in the matrix

.it's yours to create and/or suffer... as you choose

.you must realize that you are brain-damaged
.you had english programmed into your tender young brain before you had any conscious choice in the matter, and have been living in a linguistically induced trance-state your whole life
.you have mistaken "a way of thinking about something" for THE WAY IT REALLY IS... you're nuts
.you should have learned this before you reached puberty
.you have been hard-wired into a hallucination

.look at all these sapes walkin' around... thinkin' theye are human beings

1457

?what laws/regulations will we establish in the matrix
- everybody ought to be able to publish anything to everyone

- everyone should be able to easily filter data
- this will require some limitations on format of data so that it's easily filtered
- intention... eliminate sneaky bullshit
- clear/precise declaration of intentions

.actually, with the passing of capitalism/communism, most of the incentive for so-called "bad" behavior will pass with it... spam, financial scams, pollution, drugs
 .of course, there are still the few, true crazies... but that's a quite small number i think

1512

.we could change the concept of money
 .have it represent units of MY TIME... heronseconds

86,400 hs/day

31,557,600 hs/sun

.with rights come obligations

2 moons/sun r7service

.that's a 16% rate

.i am 16% borg

.we should be aiming at 1%... 1 moon every 8 suns

current time tax obligation

50 hrs/wk

50 wks/sun

2500 hrs

8760 hrs/sun

28.5% r7service

.and that's being generous in counting hours instead of days

.if we count days instead of hours we get...

68% r7service

- .a "market" might arise in trading service time
- .in the past we have been forced to arrange our lives around our work
- .in a reasonable world, we should arrange our r7service around our lives
- .we don't live the same style on vacation as we do day-to-day
- ?why

1527

- creating a "static civilization" that could last tens or hundreds of millions of years (until it's time for another transformation)
- .within that stability we can create a matrix of infinite intelligence/consciousness/expansion... and not destroy the planet that spawned it
- .of course... the whole cosmic universe could be seen as having emerged and passed in the blink of an eye... what was that?
- .you don't need to read a newspaper to change the world.. r7
- .the newspaper... internet... etc... are about what HAS happened... like being a grown-up is about being someone who is no longer growing

aubrey de gray's ten commandments of successful heresy

Want to market your own heresies? Aubrey de Gray offers (rather orthodoxly) ten commandments:

1. Be right (diligence before oratory). He quotes Sean Carroll: "Being a heretic is hard work". It's not enough to disagree with mainstream thinking - you actually have to be correct. "Galileo was a heretic, but understood the reigning orthodoxy at the time better than anyone else." Very few people work that hard: "Many casual heretics can't be bothered."
2. Be boastful (about your topic). de Gray points out that, when speaking to an audience like TED, you've got to oversell. So he titled his talk "Fixing humanity's worst problem." After all, ageing does kill twice as many people as all other causes of death.
3. Be a doer (as well as a talker). One reason to take de Gray seriously is the number of people who've taken him seriously, pledging huge sums to support his research. (I plan to steal his methodology for Global Voices.) You have to work very hard to raise these sorts of sums... and fundraising is a form of doing, even if it doesn't feel like it.
4. Be indomitable (if not invincible) - if you want to upset the applecart, grow a thick skin.
5. Be diplomatic (not all the time) - This seems like a commandment often honored in the breach. He quotes from one of his papers where he dismisses a set of someone else's arguments by announcing his intent to "tow those arguments firmly out into the ocean and give them the decent but unambiguous public burial that they so richly deserve." Those sentiments certainly didn't make him popular but, "they made some people sufficiently angry that progress was made."

6. Be everywhere (a pint is worth 1000 words) - You won't be influential as a hermit who just writes. Successful heretics maintain insane travel and speaking schedules.
7. Be pithy (especially under pressure). Sometimes you get only a few seconds. He shows a clip of himself interviewed by Stephen Colbert, suggesting that your grandmother can help you across the street, because she'll be hale and hearty as well...
8. Be inspirational (and have a team that's organizational). (Oh man, is this one true.)
9. Be selfless (remember that control is only a means to an end) - Don't control all your work too carefully - you make progress by relinquishing control to other people to take your idea forward.
10. Be right (and be able to explain why to both experts and laymen.)

strange loops and so-called "multiple personality disorder" your concept of strange loops has given me a new way of thinking about my own theory of MPD

.the subject is still controversial

.i think most academics are looking at things backward

.mpd is a result of having too few "personalities"... not too many

.a healthy individual has 100s... maybe 1000s of finely gradated
"personalities" (patterns of behavioral knots)

.they slide in and out of them many times a day, shifting as conditions/environment/people change

.they create new ones when some external factor changes... new job, divorce, sickness, etc.

.some old patterns evaporate from disuse over time

.but some unfortunate people lose the ability to generate new "selves"... usually suffering extreme abuse at the hands of some adult analogy

multiple whirlpools in a river

.the whirlpools are "real" in a sense that they persist over time

.they result from numerous everchanging pattern in the structure of the river... boulders, river bed, volume of flow, etc.

.i believe i got the idea from reading alan watts

.a whirlpool is a pattern of energy flow... not a "thing"... not the substance of the water

.selves are similar... whirlpools of neuronal activities... connects to the entire .universe thru its body/bio-antenna

.it's not that the way we feel our "identity" is wrong

.i envy math tutors/teachers

.there is no matter of opinion in it

.the concepts being taught are clear and well defined

.you get it or you don't

.it works or it doesn't

.gendo can be like that, but only if i insist that it be held that way

- .there is no outside authority
- .old, established truths that have been programmed into the language machine for 1000s of years are treated as tho they possess authority... in their truth... bible, math, etc
- .however, might might well have been born into a world when $1 + 1 = 10$

- .one challenge is to eliminate the concept, THE WAY IT IS
- .all we can ever achieve is useful ways of thinking (about experience)
- .there can be many maps for the "same" territory

- .the single most dangerous linguistic pathology that interferes with humans' abilities to live reasonably together without murdering one another is a failure to distinguish the map from the territory... to mistake "my way of thinking about something" with "THE WAY IT IS"
- .it could be eliminated in one generation
- .a new world would emerge

[4:36:25 PM] Viorel says: even though, i surprised my self as to how good i'm when it comes to it, after discovering something on wiktionary...

[4:36:54 PM] Viorel says: it's about a special situation or form of what i call debt

[4:37:32 PM] Viorel says: suppose by absurd you're a very busy man

[4:37:58 PM] Viorel says: :D

[4:38:08 PM] Viorel says: that won't be hard, ey ?

[4:39:08 PM] Viorel says: now suppose you would need to do something cumbersome, something irritating... something like, cleaning the dust or.. watering a wast area of flowers or i don't koow

[4:40:06 PM] Viorel says: something you are inclined to postpone

[4:40:18 PM] Viorel says: but would only take 30 minutes

[4:40:52 PM] Viorel says: now suppose you don't do it today, because you don't have time - because your busy with something else

[4:41:06 PM] Viorel says: and you don't do it tomorrow either

[4:41:14 PM] Viorel says: nor for the whole week

[4:42:25 PM] Viorel says: you'll end up loosing the flowers

[4:42:33 PM] Viorel says: timing in this case being crucial

[4:42:52 PM] Viorel says: but i have a better example

[4:42:57 PM] Viorel says: you have to take the trash out

[4:43:33 PM] Viorel says: suppose you have to go 1 mile for that, or you for whatever reason postpone again - thus creating debt

[4:43:59 PM] Viorel says: if you don't take it out - keep the debt of should have taken it out

[4:44:17 PM] Viorel says: what happens is that you'll have something stinking for a week inside

[4:45:20 PM] Viorel says: or suppose you have to take every day 5 minutes to brush your teeth but your too tired today, tomorrow and so on [4:49:40 PM] Viorel says: you could count as debt the 5 minutes multiplied by the number of times you skipped the activity. problem is... you will never make up for it, brushing your teeth (if you're left with any) for 48 hours in a row is not enough...

[5:22:21 PM] Viorel says: while in this later case, it's acumulation of marginal debt

[5:22:44 PM] Viorel says: while in the case of flowers is something else..

[5:22:51 PM] Viorel says: cause you end up losing the flowers

[5:23:05 PM] Viorel says: having ugly flowers in your garden

[5:23:49 PM] Viorel says: is a sort of marginal debt again. but losing it, what is that ?

[5:24:19 PM] Viorel says: and there has to be a better label than marginal... for the debt of the smelly trashcan or ugly garden...

[5:27:38 PM] Viorel says: the problem with these examples is that you don't have to recover watering the flowers the amount of time you missed out on, you pick up where you left it... rescue what you can...

[5:30:05 PM] Viorel says: but you still have to pay the debt: take the trash out

[5:30:29 PM] Viorel says: so what is that smelling that trash for a week ?

[5:30:32 PM] Viorel says: interest ? :D

I just heard u and Jason talking in your cast...I mean its recording. It was amazing, it just blew me away. Jason, I first time realized, is such an interesting transhuman, I felt so good listening about the stupidities he has or had, because I in many ways feel the same kind of stupidities in me, and I sort of, can relate to them.

Nadiya said in a cast that some people, when they talk to u, she feels as if they are making a confession to u. but I think it's different, like when I talk to you, I agree with you about so many things that u say because I also feel the same way or I have the same opinion, but it's not true that I don't disagree. I do. I critically analyze things, ideas etc. It's not that I am so much impressed by u and u take me in a trans by your amazing way of talking, it could be right for may be one or two times but it's not always like that. Nadiya is a researcher and thinks like a scientist, and I really listen to her attentively and wish her best of luck. She can contribute in the development of earthling, that's what I wish or whateverI don't know....well I want to talk to u but still trying to find a way how Shoe Phone works, and I do fell bad but I have learned how to shutdown or slowdown my language machine. So it woks for me so many times. And I really enjoy listening to your conversations. Some of them are mind blowing.

Rudyard Kipling... IF

IF you can keep your head when all about you

Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,

If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,

But make allowance for their doubting too;

If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,

Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,

Or being hated, don't give way to hating,

And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:
If you can dream - and not make dreams your master;
If you can think - and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools:
If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you Except the Will which says to them: 'Hold on!'
If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
' Or walk with Kings - nor lose the common touch, if neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And - which is more - you'll be a Man, my son!
